

Excerpt from 'There's a Leak!'

By Ben Hales

---

[Elsa and her cat, Igor, have discovered a leak in the pavement of their local high street, and have been attempting to get someone to deal with it. They have just been visited by a man and woman from the Council, who have merely put up a sign saying 'Beware of the Leak'. In this excerpt, a group of journalists have just appeared]

Reporter 1                    (offstage) I see her! Over there!

Enter Reporters 1, 2 and 3. They are carrying notebooks and cameras.

Reporter 1                    Look at that! There she is!

Reporter 2                    Lovely shot, just by the sign. (To Elsa) Could you move over just a bit?
That's great.

They all take pictures.

Reporter 3                    Is that your cat too? (To the others) This is perfect! (To Elsa) Can you give him a stroke for me?

Elsa strokes Igor, pictures are taken.

Reporter 1                    Round a bit!

Reporter 2                    Over here please!

Reporter 1                    Big smiles!

Igor and Elsa smile.

Reporter 2                    Bigger!

They smile more.

Reporter 3 Now sad faces, please! Sadder! That's beautiful!

Reporter 2 Now give us worried... More worried... Terrified... Extremely terrified...
Brilliant!

Reporter 1 Just look down for me, love. Head round a smidge. There! (To the others) Don't you think she looks just like Princess Diana?

Reporters Oh yeah!

A frenzy of picture-taking. They stop and catch their breath.

Reporter 1 So you're the brave little girl who discovered the leak, are you?

Elsa I suppose so.

Reporter 1 What's your name, luvvie?

Elsa Elsa.

Reporter 1 And how old are you, Elsie?

Elsa I'm twelve and my name is Elsa.

Reporter 2 'Elsie' is better, more sympathetic.

Reporter 3 I'm making her ten, it's cuter. Less hormonal.

Reporter 1 I'm making her sixteen. Much racier!

Reporter 2 And how long have you been waiting here, Elsie?

Reporter 3 Tell us your story.

Reporter 1 We all think you're a remarkable young thing.

- Elsa I haven't really done anything...
- Reporter 1 You have stood vigil!
- Reporter 3 You're face of humanity in an uncaring world!
- Elsa I just think someone should do something about the leak.
- Reporter 2 ""Something must be done,' says Toddler Activist."
- Reporter 3 Don't you think it's an indictment of our apathetic society that this protest has been left to a ten year-old girl?
- Reporter 1 People are calling you 'The Heroic Tot Who Made A Difference', how do you feel about that?
- Reporter 2 Does your mother always leave you unattended in the street?
- Elsa I was just going to the shops.
- Reporter 2 Would you call yourself a shopaholic?
- Reporter 3 What do you think it says about our consumerist society that people would rather shop than take an interest in infrastructure?
- Reporter 1 People are calling you 'The Princess of the Pavement'. How do you respond to that?
- Elsa Why do you keep asking me questions? Shouldn't you be doing something about the leak?
- Reporter 1 It's human interest, love. That's what sells papers.
- Elsa But I don't want to sell papers, I want someone to do something about the leak.
- Reporter 2 ""Leave me alone,' pleads Celebrity Leak-buster!"

- Reporter 3 Do you see any prospect of a peaceful resolution to this issue? Or will it, must it, end in violence?
- Reporter 1 What does your boyfriend think about all this? Has it affected your love life?
- Elsa I don't have a boyfriend! I'm only twelve!
- Reporter 2 'Underage Street Lesbian Urges Civil Disobedience'!
- Elsa I don't know what you want me to say!
- Reporter 1 Sorry, love. We're sorry.
- Reporter 3 It can be overwhelming, being the eye of a media storm.
- Reporter 2 You must be very worried about the leak.
- Elsa I am! It shouldn't be happening, should it? It's not normal.
- Reporter 2 You must be fearful about your future.
- Reporter 1 What about your cat, your old cat? You must be frightened about what will happen to him.
- Elsa What do you mean? What IS going to happen to him?
- Reporter 3 Well, something like this could very well end in disaster. Does that scare you?
- Elsa Yes!
- Reporter 2 The leak could very well mean the end of everything we hold dear.
- Reporter 1 Do you like music?
- Reporter 2 And sweeties?

Reporter 3                    And dressing up?

Elsa                            Yes?

Reporter 1                    It could all be gone in an instant.

Reporter 2                    Just like that...

Reporter 3                    Because of this leak.

Reporter 2                    I bet you wish you'd never seen it now, don't you?

Elsa                            Yes, yes! I don't want anything to happen! You're frightening me!

She starts to cry. Excitedly, the reporters all take her picture at once.

Reporters                    (examining their shots) That's it! That's the one! The money shot!

Exit reporters.
